

The Display Namespace

The namespace Display lists all displays with their properties and open and close methods.

The namespace Layout lists all layouts with their properties and open and close methods.

The namespace Client has the properties of the environment on each connected client computer or mobile device.

See "Namespaces" for the complete programming reference on runtime objects.

In this section...